B. shod before, a natural trotter. The owner is desired to come, prove property, pay charges, and take her away.

THOMAS WILSON.

July 7, 1796.

THE subscriber administrator of the estate of William Brady, Blacksmith, of Pittsburgh, late deceased, once more requests all persons indebted to said estate to pay off their respective balances in ten days from this date, otherwise he will be under the disagreeable necessity of putting their accounts into the hands of the proper officers for the recovery of the same.

JOHN GIBSON.

Pittsburgh, July 26, 1796.

ALL persons indebted to the subscriber are most earnestly requested to pay off their respective accounts immediately. No further indulgence will be given to those who neglect this notice, but they may expect their accounts will be put into the hands of proper officers for recovery.

HUGH DONALDSON.

Allegheny county, Pitt township, July 20, 1796.

Whereas I gave my bond for three hundred dollars, payable on the 25th day of October next, to Jeremiah Prent, of Harrison county and State of Virginia, in case he, the said Prent, did on that day make me a good and sufficient warrantee deed for a certain tract of land lying in said county, and bounded on the Little Kenhawa, but am now fully perswaded that it is out of his power to fulfil his contract. I therefore forwarn all persons from taking an assignment on said bond as I am determined not to pay it, unless compelled by law.

CHRISTIAN STEVENS.

Hampshire county, Virginia, May 23, 1796.

A List of Letters remaining in the Post Office, Greensburgh, July 14, 1796.

LOST, on the twenty second day of June, on the road from Washington to Pittsburgh, a bundle containing a lady's tambour'd muslin dress and a blue sash — A reward of Two Dollars will be paid to any person that will bring it to the sign of the Green Tree, in Pittsburgh.

July 1, 1796.

WHEREAS an agreement took place some time ago between Stephen Hall & Elijah Haden, respecting the sale of a tract of land, I have discovered heretofore a disposition to comply with said Hall's agreement, and give the title as he had agreed, but the said Haden absenting himself for near three years, and not coming forward to fulfill his part of the bargain, I give this notice, that I will retain the land in question (the right being invested in me) but am ready to refund what the said Haden has paid said Hall, although I do not conceive myself obliged to do even that; and those who wish to purchase will govern themselves accordingly. JOSEPH DOWNER.

Forks of Yough, May 25, 1796.

FOR SALE.

ABOUT One Hundred and eighty acres of Land, situate in the forks of Yough, where there is now a public house kept, known by the sign of the Black Horse—there is about 90 acres of cleared land, under good fence, 9 of which are meadow; there is an orchard of two hundred apple trees, seventy of which have bore these five years, a good spring for a distillery, a large dwelling house, barn, and horse shed. The situation is very pleasant, within one mile of the Monongahela river, on the road leading from Washington to Philadelphia.—Any person inclining to purchase may know the terms by applying to the subscriber near Elizabeth Town, or to ADAMSON TANNEHILL, Esq. in Pittsburgh.

GABRIEL PETERSON.

The following spirited letter we have met with in a late London paper, and with the assistance of a kind correspondent have been enabled to fill up several blanks which occurred.

LETTER TO AN IRISH PEER*.

My Lord,

WITH surprise and concern I have received a letter from John Dwyer, informing me thro' your lordship's means I have been struck off the commission of the peace for the counties of Leitrim and Roscommon. I say with surprise, as I am not conscious of any transgression that deserved such treatment; and I add with sorrow, for low as the appointment is, and low, God knows, it must be, depending on the caprice of such an individual as your lordship; yet, as it afforded me the power to protect innocence, and to counteract tyranny, I part with it with regret.

Your lordship loves not the constitution more than I do; it has been the theme of my constant panygeric, nor shall the unkind treatment I have received at your lordship's hands, tend to degenerating my opinions—Quite the reverse, 'tis to me an additional proof of the truth of my aristocratic creed—that their is in men of mean descent an innate ignobility, which no titles or honors can eradicate. It is not in radiance of the Royal Sun beams to give the mushroom the fragrance of the rose. And when we look to a new man for that bland and golden dignity of manners which marks the true nobleſſe—we too often find a pinchbeck petulence substituted in its stead.

When I waited on your lordship with a letter from the governor of the county in which I reside, with an impertinent hauteur that ill became the man of yesterday, you turned on your heel, and refused me an opportunity of justifying my conduct. Had your lordship, like your father, been designed for the Popish priesthood, you would have had the benefit of a St. Omer's education, and would have known a decency and good manners—the parvenu a giddy head is turned by looking down from a pinacle to which a fortunate combination of circumstances has raised it. Yet high as your lordship is, I could never fancy when I heard your voice, "that an angel spoke." But I have pictured to myself the figure of a sweep who clambers through dirt and stench and pops out his foot coloured face to proclaim with a shrill tone his elevation to the world!

It has been asserted by your lordship that I took bail for people under the denomination of Defenders. For the falsehood of this assertion I appeal to Mr. Justice F——. I bailed eight persons, and brought them to attend their trial. They were all acquitted, as I foresaw they must. The committal specified nothing more than that they were Defenders. You, my lord, are the most competent judge, whether a cant word is sufficient authority to detain the subject in prison. As to the story of one of the party having hough'd a cow, and put a threatening letter on one of her horns it is utterly unfounded. And had he hough'd your lordship, and put a threatening letter on one of your lordship's horses, I would under the same committal, have acted in the same manner.

I would not dismiss this letter without some comment on the impertinence of your lordship's servants. But I refer account for it, by recollecting that a man is an imitative animal. I respect the situation, un-

[illegible] fleet now is carried on [illegible] a great supply of [illegible] not be procured but by [illegible] fluence, and that [illegible] gained by a multiplication [illegible] fit; therefore as there [illegible] the gift of the minister in [illegible] during a peace, war must [illegible] every bloody action is [illegible] ter, as it creates vacancies [illegible] by that influence which is [illegible] ated—and some of the money [illegible] into the pockets of the [illegible] ly and his dependants. [illegible] secure from peril, and [illegible] when he sheds thousands [illegible] the heads, and, give the [illegible] the infatiate monster—[illegible] seat at the helm is secured [illegible] and peace is [illegible] by his influence, [illegible] no more fops to give the [illegible] yelp about him, he [illegible] question for his conduct [illegible] mankind and ruinous to the [illegible] this enquiry he must [illegible] the consequence must be [illegible] his power he will be left [illegible] by those he led at the expence [illegible] on, and the horrors and [illegible] misdeeds will surround him.

The English minister in [illegible] league against France, it is [illegible] suspected never had any [illegible] view than to prevent [illegible] any form of government [illegible] and that the preservation [illegible] XVIth formed as small a [illegible] as to protect the five [illegible] Scheldt—he was at least [illegible] der the acquirement of her [illegible] bought as possible, and [illegible] people of Great Britain [illegible] their dearest interest in the [illegible] form; that in the latter [illegible] has been too successful is [illegible] for a single moment. [illegible] this position may be [illegible] a reference to a late speech [illegible] ville in the house of [illegible] ed in the most undisguised [illegible] the war was not to [illegible] against France as for the [illegible] ciples then becoming very [illegible] ry quarter of the empire.

MARCH 26.

Doctor MAUNSELL, [illegible] recent improvement in the [illegible] toes, obtains an increased [illegible] duced expence. In a [illegible] out being injured, they [illegible] brous shoots, which [illegible] and the Doctor has stated [illegible] of argument, that a [illegible] this plan would annually [illegible] 500,000l. which, however [illegible] may appear, will not be [illegible] ble, when it is considered, [illegible] millions of the Irish from [illegible] grass, cast entirely on [illegible] foreign portion of [illegible] thing, with, in many [illegible] in some instances more [illegible] wels destitute of a chimney [illegible] any kind of door to [illegible] two frequently with [illegible] cabins open to the [illegible] lity of their wretched [illegible] encumbered by [illegible] to be enabled to [illegible] of [illegible] the Irish abroad.

ALBANY, July 9.

Furs and PELTRYS to the amount of more than Forty Thousand Dollars, have this week been received by a house in this city, from one of the North West Companies.

It has an agreeable appearance, and brightens up the faces of our old Indian traders, to see twenty or thirty waggon loads of fur at a time coming into our city—and augurs favourable, a return of the immensely rich Indian trade we once participated in.

NEW-PORT, June 28.

Extract of a letter from Capt. James Taylor, of this town, a prisoner at Algiers, dated April 6, 1796.

"This will inform you that we are still in Algiers, and God only knows when we shall get out of it. We were informed when the peace was made, that the money to pay for it was in Lisbon; since in London—Not being to be got there—the Dey, being out of patience, the 4th instant ordered Messrs. Donaldson and Barlow to leave this place on the ports being opened, which is expected hourly. I leave you to judge of what we have undergone in mind since as we are certain should this fall through, we shall never enjoy liberty again—By exerting themselves, they have got leave for Mr. Barlow [illegible] Donaldson goes to Leghorn [illegible] American brig, that came here from Marseilles, also sails to day for Alicante, with dispatches They [illegible] given to them to get the money here, but not in that time, we are sold for life!—I have not had a line from home near twelve months.—I am well, and my crew, at present.—Give my respects to Mr. Gibbs, and thanks for his kindness. I must break off.—I fear much that affairs will not succeed as I could wish. May you enjoy more happines in life than can ever fall to my share."

PHILADELPHIA, July 13.

The brig Susanna, Capt. Baird, arrived here last Saturday in 53 days from Belfast, a passenger vessel. After a tedious voyage when the Susanna had nearly made the land, it was the misfortune of these emigrants, 215 in number, to fall in the way of the British frigate la Raison, they were told commanded by Capt. Beresford, in company with the Assistance 50 gun ship. Captain Beresford sent officers and men on board the Susanna, who, after ransacking and searching every thing, impressed 46 of the passengers, and two of Capt. Baird's seamen.

What rendered this transaction the more distressing, was the wanton and barbarous conduct in dragging away the sons of many aged and respectable parents who were obliged to part with them in this cruel and insolent manner.

This transaction took place on the 27th ult. The Susanna was detained for ten hours by Captain Beresford's orders, whose hardened heart could not be moved by the tears and cries of the women and children, the old or the young, to restore any of those unhappy men he thus wantonly tore from their peaceable relatives.

The Susanna was afterwards boarded by the British frigate Thetis, in company with La Prevoyante, but neither of these tho't proper to inflict any further distress on the passengers when they were informed of the conduct of Captain Beresford.

July 16. We are credibly informed, says a Boston paper, that orders were received at the Custom House, by the last mail, from the Secretary of State, for stopping the sale of the prize goods, lately brought into this port, and forbidding the entry at the Custom House of any more prize goods that may hereafter arrive.

In the English House of Commons, May 11th, the dog tax bill being before the House, Mr. Leehmere stated, that a lady whom he knew kept 16 lap dogs, which she daily fed with roast shoulder of veal, and another lady fed her lap dog with Savoy biscuits soaked in Burgundy, and who said an eminent physician prescribed minced chicken and sweet bread for it, he wished them to be taxed very highly, and recommended a clause for a tax of twenty guineas upon every pack of kennelled hounds, and upon an unkennelled pack forty guineas.

From a London Paper.

OLD SIR-HOPE illustrates the justness of his maxim by contrasting German talking with British doing.—"There, says he, is your King of Prussia, and your Duke of Brunswick, who talked big and loud before all Europe, of marching to Paris, four months ago, and neither of these great talkers, d'ye see, is one step nearer to it now than he was then—But here is your General O'Hara, and your Sidney Smith, who never talked about the matter; and both these gallant commanders, d'ye see, have already marched to Paris!!!

Pittsburgh, July 30.

FOR THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

Mr. Scull,

I OBSERVED in your Gazette of the 16th instant, a piece under the signature of a Free Thinker and Free Speaker of Allegheny County, in which, some animadversions are made, on a statement of my opinion, respecting the British treaty, and attending circumstances, which appeared in your paper of the 9th.

For my part I am heartily satisfied, that the Free Thinker and Free Speaker of Allegheny County, should continue to think and speak for himself, and for as many as shall employ him to think and speak for them. But although I do not pretend to think as correctly as that gentleman, yet, as I have never delegated to him, nor any other person, the right of thinking and speaking for me, I hope, that under the government of proper regulations, I shall be permitted to see with my own eyes, think for myself, and speak in my own way.

As to the hypothesis of the gentleman, respecting the signing of the amnesty, I shall only say, that my conduct from the commencement of the insurrection, until the restoration of tranquility, to my, then, infatuated country, fears no investigation, requires no explanation, and stands in need of no defence, therefore, to use the gentleman's own language, "he did not think correctly," on that point.

As to the noise made by Gallatin and Findley, in the House of Representatives in Congress, about which the gentleman makes so much noise, I shall only say, we sent them there to make a noise, and if they had made none, perhaps he would have been the first to complain, and tell us, that we might as well send representatives made of wax, and calculated by springs to say yes, and no. But the gentleman seems to hint, that our immediate representatives, particularly Gallatin, made too much noise in the hall of Congress, and loved to hear themselves talking—does it follow from thence, that we are under any natural, moral, or legal obligation, to follow their example, and make a great noise, whenever our representatives choose to become vociferous?

In my publication, I did not give my opinion respecting the noise made by our representatives, in Congress, I only stated, that although I would have voted for the bill to carry the treaty into effect, yet I was pleased with the conduct of Findley and Gallatin, because I believed that they had the good of their country at heart, and acted with cautious and firmness, at the risk of losing their seats in Congress. But the truth is, that while it was my opinion, that it was our duty to make little noise respecting the treaty, it was also my opinion, that prudence ought to have dictated the same line of conduct to our representatives, and consequently, that it was their duty, to state their sentiments clearly, reason concisely, act firmly, and make little noise, knowing that neither our great noise, nor theirs, was likely to answer any valuable purpose, until the torrent of prejudice, which had been raised against us, would have had time to subside, but this was only my opinion, and perhaps I was wrong. And indeed I confess, that I have been so often mistaken in my opinion of men and things, that I have determined to retract any error, which I may have advanced, as soon as I shall become the subject of conviction; but as I have attended to all the arguments on the subject, and as the Free Thinker and Free Speaker of Allegheny County has transmitted no new light, he will certainly excuse me, if I yet retain the sentiments which I entertained before his publication made its appearance.

Convinced that I stand in need of instruction, and may possibly err, I am disposed to treat the opinions of my fellow citizens with deference, politeness, and attention; but the man who undertakes to frighten, or drive me, into his way of thinking, will undoubtedly find that he has taken a stubborn task in hand.

Pittsburgh, July 25, 1796.

A VALUABLE PLANTATION for Sale, containing about 270 acres, four miles from Pittsburgh, on the great road leading to Philadelphia. There is is about 100 acres clear land, under good fence and cultivation. There is a New Frame Dwelling House finished in a neat manner, together with a barn and other buildings. The subscriber forbears recommending this tract of land, considering that those who wish to purchase will first view it. It is sufficient to mention that the land is good, and being in the neighbourhood of Pittsburgh, where fuel is in great demand, the timber alone is of high value. For particulars apply to the subscriber on the premises.

By Yesterday's Mail

NEW-YORK, July 16.

RIOTS IN AMSTERDAM.

By the arrival of the ship Three Friends yesterday afternoon, in 48 days from Amsterdam, we learn that the inhabitants of that city were placed in a disagreeable situation. There were a body of citizens to the number of about 3 or 900, called cannoniers, of the lowest class in the society who were allowed to wear side arms.

They had lately assembled every night in gangs, and ranged about the city like madmen, in several instances committing murder. The municipality justly alarmed at these proceedings, gave orders on the 11th of May for them to assemble in front of the Stadthouse, and surrender their arms—The cannoniers assembled on the day appointed; and the light horse and the other militia were ordered to surround them in order to disarm them. The cannoniers however remained firm, determined to surrender only with their lives. With this disposition they remained from 12 o'clock mid-day until 12 at night.

At about half past 12 at night, they entered the Stadthouse, and forcibly liberated three or four of their party who had been confined for murder; who were next day seen to parade the streets of the city unmolested. A body of French troops had been sent for to keep the peace of the city.

Letters by the Three Friends mention a report having circulated in Amsterdam of an engagement on the Rhine, in which the Austrians were defeated with great loss.

London accounts of the 14th of May, state, the reports of a fresh insurrection of the Poles, on the confines of Turkey, under the command of the chiefs DEUISKO, KOLLYSKO, LIBERANWYZKY: that they had published a manifesto, in which they declare their reliance on the assistance of the Porte to deliver their country from oppression.

Should this prove true the meditated rupture between Russia and Turkey will probably be brought to an immediate issue.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23

Extract of a letter, dated New York, July 9th

"Reports are spreading that we have the Yellow Fever amongst us; and I believe we have had a few instances of it, but do not find that it increases yet."

Several other letters from New-York contains the like disagreeable information.

We are informed from good authority that in the month of June past, 219 boats passed the canal and lock at the little Falls, on the mohawk river, from which toll was received to the amount of £. 173 0 2.

The Governor of this State has issued his proclamation for preventing all improper intercourse between the shore and the vessels riding quarantine at the Fort, and between one another.

We hear that a man was killed by the lightning last monday evening at Campingtown.

Extract of a letter from Randletown, (Ireland) 16 miles from Belfast, dated 20 May 1796.

"There is the appearance of troublesome times in this country; the people are all joined in something they call, United Irishmen. Reports says they are encouraged by all the principal men in the three kingdoms. There is nothing but republican songs singing in this place; there is a large book of them printed on liberty. Government is alarmed, and have passed an act, that no man shall keep a gun without its being registered. They must pay a fine of 10l and four months imprisonment if they do not register them. The old volunteers do with great reluctance; God only knows what the event will be."

Letters from Savannah, by the last mail, contain information of the failure of the treaty with the Indians on the frontiers of Georgia.

SAVANNAH, (Georgia) July 2.

It is reported that a renewal of hostilities had actually taken place by the Indians on the frontier settlements; if this be true we lament the condition of those defenceless inhabitants, who are compelled to suffer the ravages of a barbarous and unprincipled people.

Four Dollars Reward.

STRAYED or stolen from the common of Pittsburgh, a bright bay HORSE, black mane and tail, between 14 and 15 hands high, 6 or 7 years old, a natural trotter, shod all round, much marked on the breast with a collar, and when he trots goes a little lame with his near hind [illegible]. ## THE LITTLE WAIST DEFENDED.

IN defence of our sex fure a woman may speak;
Pray what is it now that you men would be at?
Do you think that we mind each occasion you seek
To laugh at our dress, little waists and all that?

No, don't firs believe it, such nonsense must fall,
Convinc'd when we look for a moment about us,
That whether we're all waist, or no waist at all,
You can't for the life of you, men do without us.

'Tis silly to sport with our fancies and dress,
Since we can subdue you, whenever we please;
For surely we've power you all must confess,
To make you ask pardon for that on your knees.

Then prithee, dear firs leave our short waists alone;
'Tis the whim of the day, and we'll have it don't doubt us;
So give o'er your jesting, & candidly own,
You, can't for the life of you, men, do without us.

That women have tongues, I believe you well know;
But pray do not force us to put them in use,
For if you but once give them freedom to go
You'll find it a hard thing to stop their abuse

Besides, look at home, on the dress of yourselves,
With suspenders and pantaloons flocking about us;
But I'll tell you again, O ye confident elves
You can't for the life of you, men, do without us.

ANECDOTE of MARECHAL DE CATINAT

THIS philosophic general was denominated by the soldiers the Father of Thought. After the battle of Marsaille, gained by Catinat, while on all sides the acclamations of victory were still heard, and the general was surrounded by those who came to pay him their court, a veteran soldier of his regiment, piercing the congratulating cloud, threw himself at the General's feet, and in the name of the whole corps begged for mercy in favour of one of the bravest of their comrades, who was just seized as a deserter, and who the preceding evening had taken, in battle, a standard, and made several prisoners. "Compose yourself, my friend," replied the General; as he assisted the veteran to rise; let the deserter come forward. He then made his appearance; and, "Oh! my father," he cried, as he threw himself on the ground, "I am a gentleman, the son of an officer who was killed at the battle of Lens. My mother left without provision, and without protection, was obliged to labour for my subsistence and her own; but age and infirmity soon rendered her unable to work, and reduced her to wretchedness in the extreme. To support my mother I enlisted. Soon after I had joined the regiment, I learned that she lay dangerously ill: I begged for permission to go and give her my assistance; that permission was refused me: unable to resist the impulse of nature, I left my colours to fly to her aid; and as soon as she began to recover, I rejoined the army. Such, O my father! is the crime which I am now going to expiate with my life; a crime, the disgrace of which I endeavoured yesterday to efface in the field of battle. I do not beg for mercy, but only, when I shall be no more, let some assistance be given to my poor mother."—"My son," replied the General with vivacity, why did you not come to me? Or, if you conceived that I was barbarous and unfeeling, why did you call me father?—Your birth, and still more your sentiments, entitle you to the rank of an officer; a commission you shall have, your worthy comrade shall be rewarded. Go, I will inform the king of this affair; continue to act as becomes a gentleman." Catinat solicited a pension for the unfortunate mother and not succeeding at first in his application he made her an annuity from his own purse, in the name of the king, that he might not hurt her delicacy.

LANDS

To be LET or SOLD to SETTLERS only.

THREE Thousand Three Hundred acres on Wiskwares and Three Forks creeks, five miles each from the falls of the main branch of the river Monongahela, about 10 or 15 miles south of Morgan Town, Monongalia county, Virginia, is offered on improving leases and for sale in tracts suitable to the inclination of settlers only. These lands, like all others on the waters of the Monongahela, are rich soil and rough or broken. Industrious people are invited to view the lands, and make proposals in writing as may best suit their convenience. Persons inclining to view these lands will apply to Mr. EDWARD HAYMOND adjoining the southern line of the same, or to the subscriber at Brownsville, Fayette county, Pennsylvania, either of whom will shew these lands and receive proposals. The subscriber's title is clear; he will be accommodating in the terms of lease and sale, and in the mode and time of payments—He proposes to erect a Grist and Saw Mills to accommodate the settlers, and to lay off a few Town and Out Lots on said lands, near the mills, and where a new cut road through these lands leads from Clarksburgh to the great state road at Dunkard Bottom, on Cheat river—these Lots he wishes to let out to industrious Mechanics on moderate ground rent forever, but redeemable at the desire of the lessee on paying a composition. The subscriber forbears recommending these lands, confiding that those who want will view the same, and a choice which will be given to the first applicants in order as they apply, are sufficient inducements, and he positively will give the best terms to the first settlers.
